

Why wait to find out if it works?

Choosing a case management system (CMS) is tough. The firm will live with the decision for years, so you want to know you're making the right call.

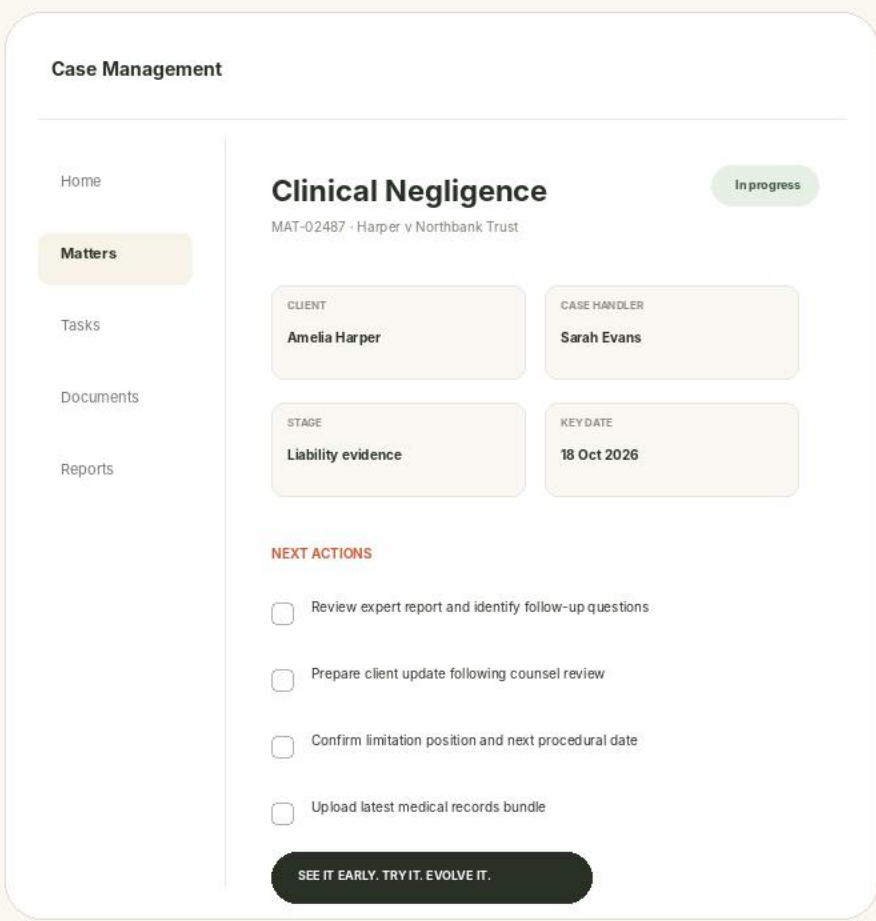

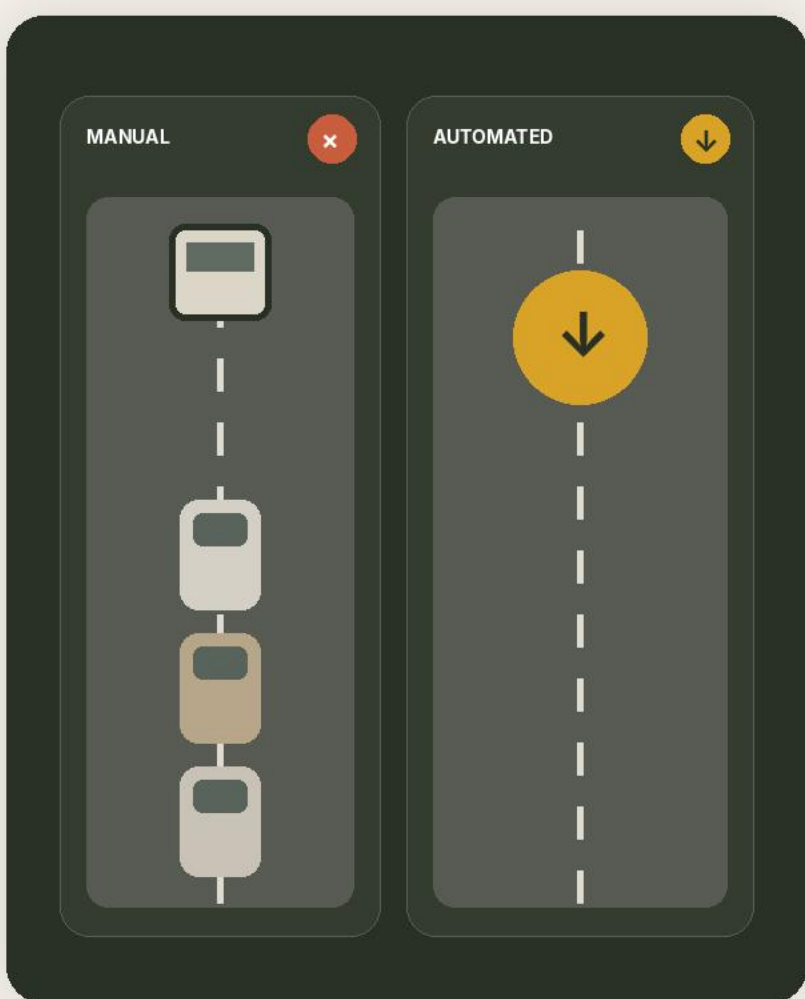

What if you could see one of your own practice areas working before you decide?

● Real outcomes faster

● Your people in control

● Fewer surprises later

SEE IT EARLY. EVOLVE IT TOGETHER.

See it for yourself.

Help us understand one of your practice areas through a short discovery and, within a few hours, we'll have it up and running in a CMS, ready for you to try.

Still deciding? We can get the same practice area working in different CMSs.

How much better would it feel to make the decision based on something real?

A PRACTICAL APPROACH

Move quickly, with the right people beside you.

Our goal is to unlock the benefits of your CMS investment as quickly as possible.

We spend time with your teams to understand how the work really happens, then use our own technology to turn that understanding into something you can see and touch, fast.

1

Show us

Your lawyers, case handlers and technical teams take us into the detail. We listen, ask questions and understand what they actually need.

2

See it working

We take that understanding and, within hours, turn it into something your teams can use. They get hands-on, try it for themselves and see what works while the conversation is still fresh.

3

Evolve it together

Your teams tell us what works, what doesn't and what needs to change. We make those changes quickly, show them again and repeat.

By the time you go live, your teams will already know how to use the CMS in their everyday work.

Because your people are using and evolving the system from the start, they're learning how it works in their own context. They're thinking about how they'll use it on their own cases, seeing where processes could work better and getting comfortable with new ways of working.

Testing, training, process improvement and change happen naturally as part of the implementation, not as separate activities at the end.

REAL PEOPLE. REAL EXPERIENCE.

We know law, we know CMS and we've learned some tough lessons along the way.

Our team includes former case handlers, paralegals, IT Directors and developers with years of experience delivering, supporting and living with CMS implementations.

We've made decisions we'd make differently now, seen small changes create big headaches later, and had to put things right when projects haven't gone to plan.

That experience shapes how we work today: a streamlined approach where we'll tell you if we think something's a bad idea, course-correct when something starts heading in the wrong direction, and when things get tough, we'll be right there with you every step of the way.
